Description:

This hessian or burlap fabric holds all the classic qualities of jute hessian, but also boasts a handy self adhesive backing along with a fire retardant coating. The backing is protected with waxed paper which you can simply peel off to reveal a sticky coating covering the back of the hessian so its ready to use for large or small scale projects. The fabric is not waterproof due to the fibres of the fabric it is likely to fade under the sun.

The fabric has a course close weave, and the natural jute fibres give the fabric a soft warm brown shade, with slight naturally occurring colour variances. This and all of our hessian fabrics are fully biodegradable, so you can feel better about doing your bit for the environment.

This fabric looks great as wall covering for events and traditional rural themed designs, you can easily cover props, tables and chairs or create large typography by cutting out letters from the fabric. This particular hessian also holds a fire retardant coating, so its ideal for use in public areas where health and safety may be an issue. This fabric visually works well with our other natural coloured traditional fabrics, have a look in store at our calico, canvas and hessian ranges.
