Spandex velvet is a type of fabric that combines the stretch properties of spandex with the softness and warmth of velvet. Spandex is a synthetic elastane fibre that is known for its stretch ability and ability to return to its original shape, while velvet is a plush, soft fabric with a short pile. Spandex velvet is typically used for clothing and upholstery, it is a stretchy and comfortable fabric that is great for creating form-fitting garments.

Some common uses for spandex velvet include

- Leggings
- Dresses
- Skirts

- Bodysuits

It's also used in some furniture coverings, interior design, because of its softness and durability.
