Description:

This fabric is made by combining two layers including wool, polyester, and cotton, to create a more durable and comfortable material. This fabric is suitable for a variety of projects, including clothing, blankets, Medical use and upholstery. It's also an excellent choice for outdoor equipment, including tents and backpacks, as it is both water-resistant and resilient. Because this fabric is so durable, it can withstand high levels of wear and tear and can last a long time without needing replacement.
